--ABSTRACT--

In the English translation document, please add the paragraph at page 23 line 1, after the newly added ABSTRACT section heading, as follows:

The invention relates to a system and a method for the graphical recording of system requirements and specifications in electronically readable form. Elements of a plant are graphically represented by selectable components. The components are graphically rendered in a relationship to each other and a control-relevant circuitry automatically specified based on the established relationship and prepared in electronic form.
